The Court, however, was unable to accept this theory, in the face of the evidence of Dawson and Lcary, and to the fact that no sign of smouldering or smell of fire had been perceived before 1.15 p.m. on that day. The nose was brought down on to the fidley grating, and the master endeavoured to direct a stream of water through the aperture, but owing to the funnel he was unable to get near enough to use the hose with any effect. He then ran up on deck to alter the ship s course, so as to put her before the wind and reduce the draught, and communicated with the Spree, belonging to the North German Lloyd Line, which was...

Reviews

Extensive information for book fans. It is written in basic words and never hard to understand. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
