It is at the same time so indispensable for every human being, not only in common life, but in the pursuits of the highest sciences, that it forms the most proper, and has always formed one of the principal branches of the earlier education of youth. By its very nature it furnishes the means of developing the reasoning faculties, from the time of their first beginning to expand themselves, and of habituating them to correctness and precision. It therefore gives the human mind the power and disposition to reason upon sound and correct principles. It is therefore the duty of the faithful teacher of youth, (not the mere teacher for his own private emolument, ) to take advantage of this property of arithmetic, and apply it to cultivate the mind, and enlighten the understanding of his scholars, by a proper reasoning in this elementary science; he should not make it the object of the memory alone; a method that leaves no impression upon the mind whose results are therefore lost again as soon as the school is dismissed. To neglect to take this advantage of the study of arithmetic, is either a proof of ignorance, or an actual dereliction of duty.
